DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Burton (US 4,743,260). Burton discloses a device that is useable for connecting vertebrae comprising a stabilization member (18), a first anchoring member (15) that is capable of extending from the stabilization member (note hole 19, for example), and a second anchoring member (15, opposite the first anchoring member), wherein both are considered unitary in construction, in and of themselves.

Burton further discloses a stabilization member that is porous. Burton discloses that the apparatus is preferably made from a biocompatible materials, that is porous to aid in the acceptance and incorporation of natural bone (Col. 4, lines 45-52). Also, the first and second anchoring members are capable of extending perpendicularly from the stabilization member (see base of anchoring member 24a), and thus would be parallel to each other from opposing ends and in use. The anchoring members are also substantially cylindrical (17) so that they can be used to screw into the bone surface (Col. 4, lines 53-64). And finally, the first and second anchoring members may also be porous (Col. 4, lines 45-52).

Burton discloses the claimed invention except for the stabilization member and anchors being unitary. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the two portions unitary, since it has been held that forming in one piece an article which has formerly been formed in two pieces and put together involves only routine skill in the art. Howard v. Detroit Stove Works, 150 U.S. 164 (1893).

Claims 31-32 and 35-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Burton '260. Burton discloses the claimed invention except for a pore size between 190 and 1200, or 230 microns. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make pore sizes appropriately this size, since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

Claims 33-34 and 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Burton as applied to claims 2 and 7 respectively above, and further in view of Drewry et al. (US Patent Pub 2003/0083657). Burton discloses the claimed invention except for anchors that have a lumen to enable bone growth. Drewry et al. disclose a screw with a lumen (42), that would allow bone growth once installed (par. 0044 and 0049). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the device of Burton having at least cannulated anchors in view of Drewry et al. to better incorporate the device into the spinal area.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-7 and 31-37 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

For clarification with regards to what was considered "unitary" previously, the claims as written before were interpreted as if the anchors only were required to be unitary, hence the line "in and of themselves" clarifying that only those were required to be unitary.

However, the rejections above still apply.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
